on the first try, even with a map.

Who's Ann Hackley?

And ~~even the residents~~ there aren't sure who Ann Hackley was.

"I heard she was an Indian, but that sure is a funny name," said Helen Johnson, 5306 Ann Hackley Drive.

"When we moved here we heard she was the granddaughter of Chief Little Turtle," said Bobbie Retherford, 5336 Ann Hackley Drive. "But I never thought that sounded like an Indian name."

Don Study, 5228 Ann Hackley Drive, had another explanation: "I was given to understand Ann Hackley was an Indian princess who married a white man."

Study was close to being correct. Ann Hackley was an Indian princess on the Hackley Indian Reservation, which was actually located one mile north of Ann Hackley Road. Ann married a white man, Peter Blyston, and they received title to the land on which Ann Hackley Drive sits from the government in the Miami Treaty of 1826. The Blystons sold the land on March 26, 1856.

Amos Delagrange, a Fort Wayne developer, began developing the land in 1955, and the street was named after Ann Hackley.

Developers choose

After choosing names for streets, developers submit the names to the city or county planning commissions for approval. The commissions make sure street names are not duplicated.

The developers' interest in naming streets quickly is a factor in the names destined for the street corner

CITYSCAPES

Estate home of influential intellectuals

Originally, the square block that for nearly three-quarters of a century was the home of Central High School — the buildings which today hold the Fort Wayne Regional Vocational Center, at 1200 S. Barr St. — lay far outside the heart of Fort Wayne. This was the site of the grand estate of the Hamilton family, one of the most influential and extraordinary clans in Fort Wayne history.

Allen Hamilton, the founder of the Fort Wayne family, was a land speculator who acquired the area south of Lewis Street, between Barr and Clinton, in the years just after the county was formed in 1824. Like the many other lands that he bought throughout northern Indiana, these were government lands ceded to the United States by the Miamis nation after the great Indian wars of the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

In 1838, Hamilton began construction of a great three-story mansion on the site. Not completed until 1841, the "Hamilton Homestead," as it was later called, was a large Italianate structure designed to resemble the ancestral home of the Hamiltons in Ireland. That home was called "Mount Charles."

Allen Hamilton had come to Fort Wayne in 1823, in the same era as such other founders of the community as Samuel Hanna, Eliza Taylor, Francis Comparet and the Ewing brothers. An Irish immigrant, Hamilton had been a miserable failure in his first years in Canada and the U.S. But almost as soon as he arrived in the rude little village that was growing up around the remains of the old fort, Hamilton enjoyed business success and public prominence.

Within a year of his arrival, he was named by the governor to be the first sheriff of Allen County (1824), and in 1825, it was he who appealed to the American Home Missionary Society to send to Fort Wayne its first resident Protestant minister, a request that evetually lead directly to the founding of First Presbyterian Church in 1831.

In the 1830s, Hamilton served as Indian agent and Allen County Auditor (and Clerk), operated a grist mill where Clinton Street met the canal, and, in 1833, helped to start Fort Wayne's first newspaper, the Sentinel. For several years, Hamilton was postmaster, and he even served on a "vigilance" committee which was to oversee the removal of the "swamps, mud holes, brush and the nuisance of dead matter" in downtown Fort Wayne, particularly on Calhoun Street.

Most importantly, Hamilton was president and a director of the first bank in Fort Wayne, the branch of the State Bank of Indiana (1835). In 1853, he founded his own private bank, the Hamilton Bank, which in later years became the First and Hamilton National Bank, a major financial firm until its failure in 1933.

By the time of his death in 1864, Allen Hamilton was one of the wealthiest persons in Fort Wayne. By this time, too, the "Hamilton Homestead" had become a landmark feature of the community. And it was not only for the rich, since the Hamiltons were known to hold great parties for both "first society" people and for large numbers of guests of humbler means.

Photos: Courtesy Allen County-Fort Wayne Historical Society

The Allen Hamilton residence, built in 1841 and known as "The Old House," stood on the corner of Clinton and Lewis streets.

It was in this spirit of relative ease with which social and economic elements mingled in early Fort Wayne society that the Hamiltons happily offered a portion of their estate, just west of Clinton, for the city's first baseball park (for the Summit City Club, on the southeast corner of Lewis and Calhoun).

Emerine Jane Holman Hamilton: an oil painting

For decades, the Hamilton estate, known affectionately by generations of Hamiltons as "The Old House," was ruled by Emerine Jane Holman Hamilton, Allen's wife (she was the daughter of Judge Jesse Holman, the founder of Franklin College and a member of the Indiana Supreme Court).

Described as a "tiny and wiry person whose mind was as quick as her body," Emerine was a voracious reader. Although not a very affectionate individual, she frequently delighted her grandchildren with the poetry of Sir Walter Scott and deeply impressed them with her devotion to the causes of temperance and women's suffrage. Personal friends and occasional visitors to "The Old House" in those years were Susan B. Anthony and Frances Willard, leading national advocates of women's voting rights in the late 19th Century.

In keeping with her great love of reading, Emerine Hamilton opened the Fort Wayne Free Reading Room early in 1889. For nine years, this facility served as the only public library and was, accordingly, named the Emerine J. Hamilton Library after her death in August 1889.

Not surprisingly, two of Emerine and Allen Hamilton's grandchildren who grew up around "The Old House" — Edith and Alice — won world acclaim. (They were the offspring, along with Margaret, Nora and Arthur, of the Hamilton's second son, Montgomery, and his wife, Gertrude Pond. Allen and Emerine also were parents of Andrew Holman, Mary and Emerine.)

The best known of these grandchildren was Edith Hamilton, a world-renowned classical scholar whose major book, "The Greek Way," has been described as "a brilliant interpretation of ancient Greek literature, science, philosophy, and art." Edith received her education at the hands of German-trained scholars teaching at St. Paul's Lutheran School across the street from "The Old House." She went on to become the first woman ever admitted to the University of Munich, and was headmistress of Bryn Mawr College in its most brilliant years (1896-1932). At age 90, Edith Hamilton was made an honorary citizen of her spiritual home, Athens, Greece.

Edith's sister, Dr. Alice Hamilton, studied medicine at the University of Michigan, with additional studies in Germany and at Johns Hopkins University. As a physician in Chicago, she became associated with such leading social critics of her day as Eugene Debs, Emma Goldman, Jack Reed, Clarance Darrow and Upton Sinclair. She became deeply concerned about industrial diseases and the health of factory workers, and by 1910 she had been named special investigator of industrial poisoning for the state of Illinois. As a result of her research, important fundamental laws protecting workers in industry were passed and served as models for the nation.

In 1919, she became the first woman faculty member at Harvard, where she lectured on industry-related illnesses. At the time of her death, in 1969, she was wrestling with the problems of the disposal of nuclear waste.

In each of these lives "The Old House" figured strongly. It, like Fort Wayne iself, was "home base," and they often harkened back to the house and community as a source of strength and creativity.

In a very real sense, this same feeling was continued in the 20th Century fortunes of the "Hamilton Estate" between Barr and Clinton, for this was the site chosen by the school board for a new high school in 1901.

HAMILTONFrom 3S

The first Fort Wayne high school, located on ayne Street, was built in 1868, but by the turn the century, it no longer was adequate for the mand of "higher education" in this age before mpulsory attendance. By 1900, the school ard decided to build a new "High School and anual Training School" and entered into nego- tions with Margaret V. Hamilton, grand- ughter of Allen and Emerine and sister of Ed- and Alice. Finally, it was agreed that for 5,000 Margaret Hamilton (who at first was too ached to the land to sell it) would give up the tern portion of the old estate (that is, along rr Street).

In 1903, the new building was constructed d an entirely new era was begun for the Hamil- lands. The new high school (about 670 stu- nts) launched a 20th Century tradition in Fort ayne with its first publications of "The Cal- dron" (later, the name of the yearbook) that shows all the vitality of the American high school in its infancy.

All the lands, including "The Old Home," came into the School City's possession after Margaret Hamilton died, and by 1921, the Hamilton House itself was the regular meeting place for the administration.

In 1938, the Hamilton House was destroyed and the new gymnasium for the high school was built in its place.

An era had passed, but the site should still be held in remembrance of what was once accomplished financially by a poor Irish immigrant, whose new-found wealth, among other things, made possible the intellectual brilliance and the humane compassion of two Fort Wayne Hamiltons, Edith and Alice.

SAMUEL HANNA

BOOKSHELF GEMS

History Reprints Give Township, Family Lore

By DAVID L. DRURY
Director, Historical Museum

A short biography of Samuel Hanna and the annals of Allen County's twenty townships are features of two local history reprints soon available from the Allen County-Fort Wayne Historical Museum. The republished volumes are Bert Griswold's 1400-page PICTORIAL HISTORY OF FORT WAYNE and Wallace Brice's 1868 HISTORY OF FORT WAYNE.

Long out of print and collector's items today, the two histories will be reprinted under the sponsorship of the Historical Society. Prepublication prices, good until July 1, are $7 for the Brice work and $20 for the two volume set of Griswold. Checks may be mailed to the Historical Museum, 1424 W. Jefferson St.

Griswold's volumes include a long section chronicling the story of the early settlement in the townships of Allen County. These histories were written by Mrs. Samuel Taylor, local historian and first curator of the Historical Museum.

In the Washington Township section can be found the family history of the Archers, pioneer settlers. Led here by Benjamin Archer, Sr. the family left its home in Montgomery County, Ohio to take up property along the St. Joseph River. Besides purchasing several tracts for himself and his sons, Archer built a brick kiln and for a time supplied area builders.

Benjamin's best known son was John S. Archer. It was at John's home that the celebrated "Johnny Appleseed" (real name John Chapman) died in 1845. The legendary character was buried in the Archer cemetery just south of the Memorial Coliseum.

Washington Township also proved a leader in the consolidated school systems that developed just before World War I. Near the intersection of U.S. 30 and the U.S. 30 Bypass stood Lincoln School. Built in 1915, this building was among the first in the state to take pupils from the entire township. Transportation was provided first by horse-drawn omnibuses, later by motor coach. Much opposition was voiced over this radical scheme before it went into effect. In time the idea became almost universal through out Indiana. The township's trustees proved to be far-sighted and determined in their course; the school children were the beneficiaries.

Mrs. Taylor's studies include much information concerning towns that have passed from existence over the years. In Marion Township, for example, Middletown once boasted a flourishing trade and several inns served travelers along the main road south. However, when the Cincinnati, Richmond and Fort Wayne Railroad chose not to build through the village the merchants gathered their wares and fled. On their heels went the rest of the populace. A few homes now mark the site where this thriving crossroads once stood.

Another ghost town today is Fairport. Platted in 1837 along the Wabash-Erie Canal in Milan Township, the village contained 517 lots and several hundred people. The town boasted a post office, many taverns and three general stores. Hopes that the canal would help it prosper proved illusionary and the spot today is but a name on old county maps.

A notable part of the Perry Township history outlines the career of Nathaniel Fitch. Fitch was an early blacksmith and miller. He is credited with much of the iron work used in constructing the Wabash-Erie Canal locks between here and Wabash. When this pioneer first set up his forge the Indians were subdued but still far from civilized. A tribesman cam to Fitch with a musket in need of repair. Already engaged in another task, Fitch asked the warrior to wait. Enraged, the Indian drew a knife and started to attack. Fitch grabbed a shovel but an Indian chief, Chopine, observing the incident interceded before blood flowed.

Similar unique and enlightening information concerning the development of the county's townships can be found in the other annals appearing in the Griswold volumes.

A fascinating part of Brice's Fort Wayne history is an appended life of Samuel Hanna. No other man did more for the county's early prosperity. Scarcely a project of economic, educational or cultural worth was launched without Hanna's active participation.

Born in Kentucky in 1797, Hanna moved with his parents near Dayton, Ohio in the early 1800's. He first came to Fort Wayne in 1818; his interest drawn by the extensive Indian trade available at this spot. The United States government periodically paid the tribes' annuities at the agency here. Hanna obviously hoped to capitalize on the monies freely available.

His arrival here was overshadowed by a huge debt left behind in Ohio. While still a minor, Hanna had signed a note for $3,000. As the notes came to maturity Hanna's merchandise was removed because it had been sold to him illegally. Thus Hanna found himself in debt and without the goods he hoped to sell to fulfill his obligation. Some doubt remains how this problem was eventually resolved since Hanna's father co-signed the note and the elder Hanna had ample means to discharge the debt. At any rate, the young man's move to Fort Wayne clearly indicated his hope to find more fertile fields for his hopes of fortune.

Soon after his arrival he joined with his brother-in-law, James Barnett, in a business at the corner of Columbia and Barr Streets. This crude log structure soon teemed with both Indian and white seeking necessities and the little luxuries that made life in the wilderness more palatable.

Hanna soon gained appointment as Fort Wayne agent for the American Fur Company, expanding both his business and contacts with men of means outside the immediate area. He also won election as Associate Judge of the Circuit Court and later served in the state legislature.

While serving in the legislature Hanna pushed a bill calling for construction of a canal from Toledo to Evansville down the Maumee and Wabash River valleys. The ultimate completion of the Wabash-Erie Canal in 1843 assured Fort Wayne's preeminence in northeastern Indiana. On these waters came manufactured goods from the east and thousands of settlers to take up the rich lands.

In the 1840's Hanna promoted plank roads leading from Fort Wayne to Lima (now Howe), Indiana and Piqua, Ohio. In the 1850's he headed a company that built the first railroad to Chicago. This line later linked with eastern trackage to form the Pennsylvania Railroad. As part of the railroad effort, he persuaded the Common Council of Fort Wayne to float a $100,000 bond issue to aid the new line and insure the placing of major facilities within the city.

Amidst this frenetic activity, Hanna found time to become one of the large landholders of the area. He once said he could ride from Fort Wayne to Indianapolis via Lafayette and return through Anderson and feed his horse from his own corn crib each night.

Among his many other interests are numbered the founding

Solid, stable Hessen Cassel parish proud of past

By Adrienne M. Clark

HESSEN CASSEL — The first thing you see high above the trees is the cross. From its position atop the church spire, it looks down on Highway 27 south of Fort Wayne. As you round the next curve, a small rural church complex is spread out on the left side of the road. It is St. Joseph Parish, Hessen Cassel.

It's all there; the church, the rectory, the convent. All are simply built without any pronounced architectural style; all are solidly built functional buildings of deep red brick. Behind the church is the small parish cemetery which marks so many rural churches. Beyond these buildings is the school; a long low modern school building, the pride of the parish.

ST. JOSEPH RECENTLY celebrated the 125th anniversary of its present church building. The actual date the parish was established is not known, although legend has it that the very first Mass celebrated in Hessen Cassel was said on a tree stump as early as 1835. Masses were often said in the homes of the early settlers as well.

"Father Julian Benoit was undoubtedly the most comsummate missionary," said Msgr. Robert Contant, current pastor of St. Joseph. "He is responsible for many of the rural parishes in this diocese. He was pastor of St. Augustine's in Fort Wayne, which later became the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Father Benoit would leave Fort Wayne in the spring when the land was dry and stay on the road all summer traveling throughout the diocese."

"When he'd hear of a Catholic in an area he would stop at his home," continued Msgr. Contant. "Catholics from around the area would gather and he would baptize, marry, hear Confessions and say Mass. Then he'd ask if they knew of any other Catholics and he'd move on. Out of these little groupings of Catholics who continued to meet in their homes grew these small rural parishes."

"Many of these small churches even pre-date the priests," Msgr. Contant added. "These small groups of Catholics would get together to build their churches. Then they would get a priest to come whenever he could make it until they finally got a priest of their own."

The rectory (left) isn't as old as the church building at St. Joseph's in Hessen Cassel, which is 125 years old this year. But the rectory is over 100 years old, too. (Photo by John Oswald)

LEGEND SURROUNDS THE building of the present St. Joseph Church. According to Msgr. Contant the story is that the pastor announced that the parish needed to construct a new church in 1856. Up until that time parishioners had been using a log cabin. That very afternoon, so the story goes, the people brought him $3000 in cash.

While the church was under construction the diocese of Fort Wayne was created. Tradition also has it that the dedication of this new church was the first public appearance of the new bishop, John Henry Luers.

The people of St. Joseph Parish are proud of their heritage and the tradition which surrounds their parish. Stories and legends are told and retold, and are preserved in booklets commemorating special events in the parish's history. The authenticity of these stories cannot always be verified. Historians would probably wince at most of them. But they are seldom questioned in the parish.

St. Joseph parishioners are also proud of their school. "We have just about all of the parish children in our school," said Sister Judith Plumb, O.S.F., principal of this kindergarten through eighth grade school. "We have a very small CCD program. Our parents also support the school with plenty of volunteer work."

THROUGH THE USE of a Recreation Hall which is just across a parking lot from the school, the students are able to participate in a physical education program, as well as a hot lunch program. This building also houses a stage which was built by the parishioners so the school children could put on their plays and programs.

The parish is a stable one. "Some people have come and gone over the years," said Msgr. Contant. "However, we have stayed right around 300 families for some time now. We have a few mobile home courts and an apartment house, but for the most part we are a parish of small single family homes."

Parishioners are mostly blue collar workers so the impact of the high unemployment in the area has been keenly felt. "We have been heavily impacted by International Harvester," said Msgr. Contant.

Sister Judith agreed. "We have been hit hard by unemployment here," she said. "However, the students and their families seem to be dealing with it as well as can be expected. We don't see any problems in school because of it."

THE PHYSICAL PROPERTIES of St. Joseph Parish seem to fit its parishioners well. There is nothing extremely ornate, nor extremely modern, in these buildings. The inside of the church is a comfortable mixture of the old with the new. The free standing altar in the sanctuary for the Masses of today shares space with the traditional, solidly built and ornate altar of the past. The lovely long stained glass windows are there, but the walls are a light color which brightens the church, and the ceiling has been lowered.

This is a church which has kept up with change, even as it has held on to its traditions. Its parishioners have done the same. Both church and parishioners are comfortable and stable. The church is built of solid materials on good ground for parishioners who are stable people, built of solid material and standing on good ground.

OPPORTUNITIES TO CHEAT: By getting rid of the credit cards you tend to use as a way to avoid staying within your budget, you can do yourself a favor. By writing a check each month first to your savings account, then to your investment account and finally to charity, you will be left finding creative ways to make ends meet on the remaining monthly expenses that used to eat up your entire income. By limiting the cash you take out of each paycheck for day-to-day spending money, you will again force yourself to find ways to stretch your weekly allowance.

■ MAKE YOUR FINANCES INTO A CHALLENGING GAME INSTEAD OF AN ANXIOUS BURDEN: Each month, the time spent paying your bills should be done in an enjoyable atmosphere of your favorite music, comfortable chair and felt-tip colored pen. After you've paid the bills, reward yourself with a bubble bath, a snack or a movie. When making out your budget, think of yourself as creatively planning a vacation or an adventure. In fact, you are involved in an adventure, and if you play the game well, there are tremendous prizes in store for you.

Changing your savings and spending habits won't happen automatically or without some determined effort. Yet the more you use creative ingenuity to break your pattern of ignoring the truth about your finances, the more you can enjoy the rewards of building for the future and feeling secure in the present.

WKJG's Florea a do-it-yourselfer who's staying put

By FRANK GRAY
Staff Writer

Dick Florea strolled through the century-old barn behind his house and mused about the farmers and the hands that labored there before electricity, the telephone, the tractor and the car.

"If old buildings could tell stories . . ." said Florea.

The massive old barn, made of timbers 12 inches on a side and 50 feet long, probably teems with stories, as many as Florea has delivered as evening news anchor for WKJG-TV, Channel 33.

Just as many stories probably linger in Florea's farmhouse, built sometime between 1843 and 1880 on the outskirts of what is now Huntertown. Florea isn't sure how many people were born in its rooms, but just about everybody in Huntertown seems to be related to someone who lived there once, he said.

Florea, 47, affectionately calls his hilltop spread "the dump on Gump," though he notes that it has risen well above the dump stage in the eight years he has been tinkering with it, making repairs and renovations himself.

It is something of an old-fashioned, aw-shucks image that Florea, a local history buff, presents. Somehow, one expects a touch more haughtiness from someone who has been a news anchor here for 18 years and hosts "Editor's Desk," a 12:15 p.m. TV talk show.

Instead, one finds a relaxed individual, fond of visiting the library to learn how to do things for himself.

Of appearing on television, Florea says: "It's no big deal. Some people deliver milk — well, I guess not too many people do that anymore — and some people are on television."

Florea said a lot of people probably think he drives a Ferrari and lives a fancy lifestyle. But there are no Ferraris on his property, just a 1975 Vega, good for trips to and from work.

When his children finish school — Ginger, 18, and Shelley, 20, are in college; Stan, 13, is in eighth grade — maybe he'll get another car, Florea said. In the meantime, the Vega and a 6-year-old Granada will have to do for Florea and his wife, Phyllis, an insurance agent. And if people are surprised to see someone they believe makes fabulous money driving an old Vega instead of a flashy sports car?

"Oh, who cares?" Florea said.

He likes sitting on the porch of his farmhouse, the way farmers did 100 years ago, and wondering what they wondered about, and investigating local history.

"It's just fun to delve into the local area," he said.

For example, he'd like to find out exactly when former county commissioner Jacob Hillegass built his house, but social notes in microfilm copies of old newspapers haven't revealed that information. Florea also would like to locate one of Hillegass' descendants. Maybe one would have a photo of the house in its early days, he said.

The house isn't the sole focus of his life.

From his first job as a radio announcer, while in high school in Marion, Florea went to Purdue University, where he worked in radio and television at both the university and commercial stations. Later, he worked in radio and television in Marion before coming to WKJG in 1966.

Florea is somewhat unusual among TV journalists. Many newscasters are what he calls, in a nonderogatory fashion, news gypsies, migrating from opportunity to opportunity. Florea is content to remain in Fort Wayne.

WKJG's news is in third place among the three local stations with news, but Florea takes the low ranking with calm nerves.

"We really don't want to be there, but ratings are not the only thing important in a newscast. . . . We were No. 1 for several years. I didn't get heady about that," he said.

The station's news personnel are fine, he said. The station has made some cosmetic changes, such as introducing a new set, and other changes are being planned to make the news more popular, he said, not detailing specifics.

The No. 3 ranking of Florea's newscasts hasn't brought disparaging remarks from his competitors. Instead, competitors point out that Gerry Dick, now in Indianapolis, Dave Smith, now in Buffalo, and Jay Hildebrandt, now an anchor in Idaho, all learned TV journalism under Florea.

Florea, colleagues say, is a laid-back, no-frills journalist. He's a straightforward, honest man, on camera and off, who tells the news and gets it right.

Rich Porter, a reporter at WPTA-TV, Channel 21, compared Florea to an apple — not exciting, but nutritious.

"He's not junk food," said Porter.

Larry Smith, news director at WANE-TV, Channel 15, has known Florea for several years.

"He's a journalist from the old school of solid journalism. He's not a part of the modern TV generation. He's applied his journalistic expertise to television," said Smith.

Florea's 18 years in Fort Wayne have found him entrenched in city activities, largely as a volunteer.

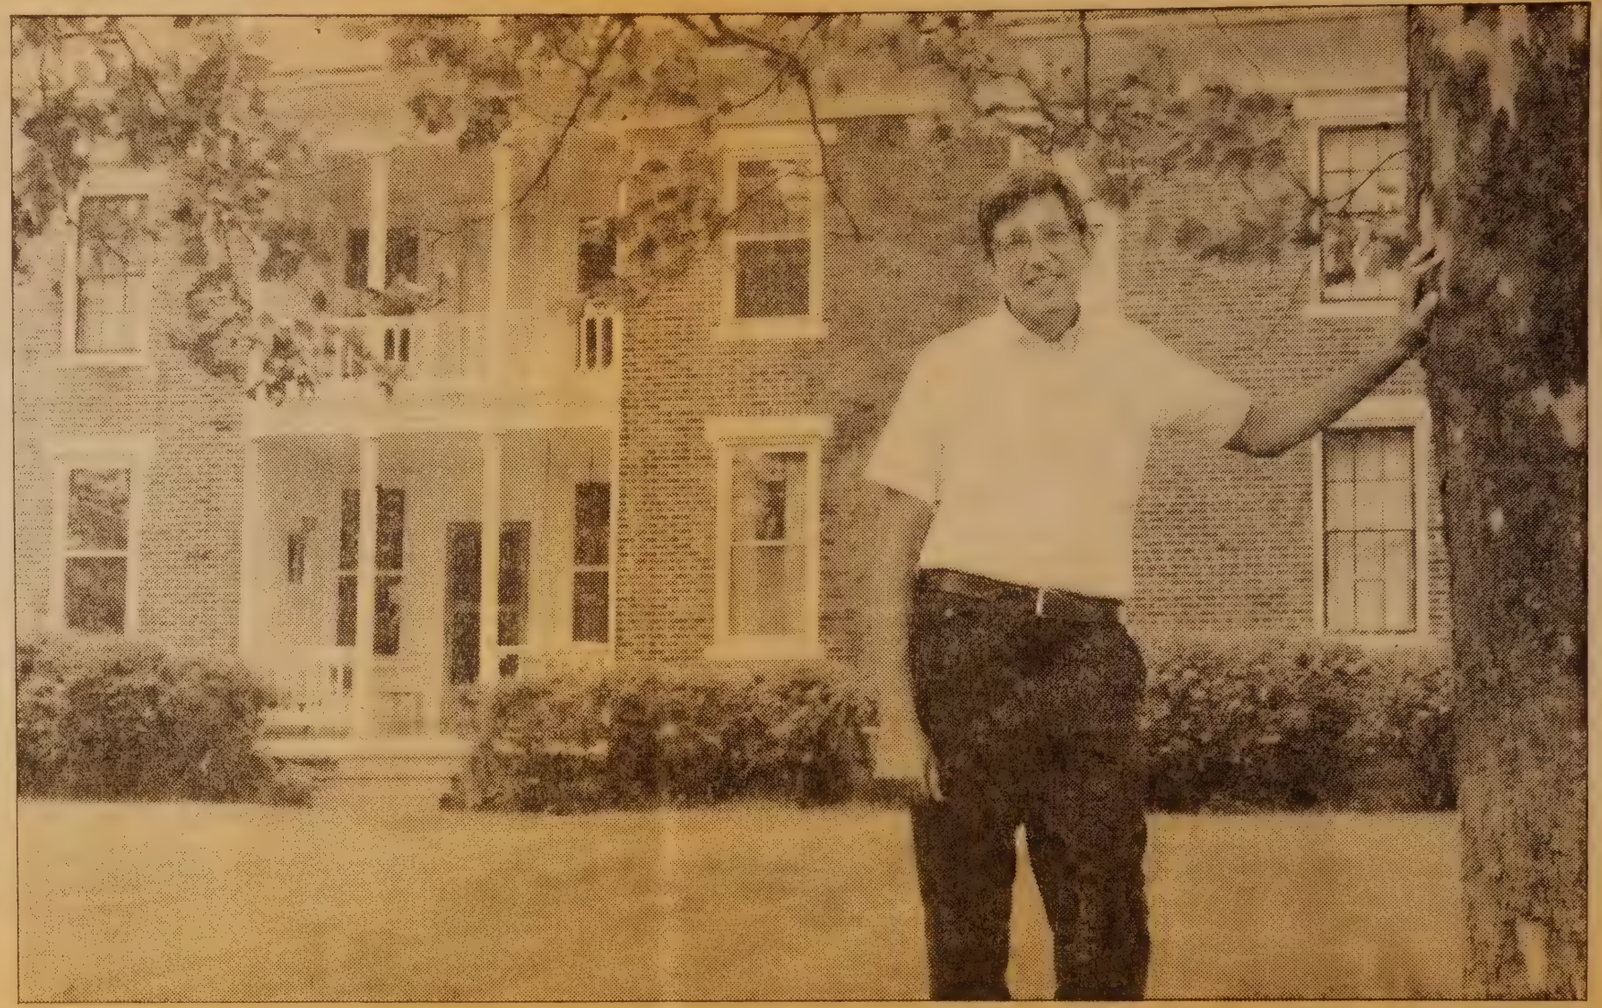

"I've always enjoyed working as a volunteer," he said. "I just like being a part of things. The answer to making Fort Wayne a great place to live isn't raising taxes and hiring a lot of experts, but people who make things happen."

Florea, a former president of the Allen County-Fort Wayne Historical Society, is involved in Historic Fort Wayne and the Three Rivers Festival, during which he operates a flea market.

"I like to be involved in one or two organizations at a time so I can be active. I don't want to be just a joiner," he said.

At Historic Fort Wayne, where Florea remains a member of the board of directors, his activities haven't been those of just a joiner, said the Fort's assistant director, Sherry Neher. When the Fort flooded, he was there to help clean it out. When it was starting out, he was there to help raise money. In his position on the board, his primary responsibility is raising money.

"He's been extremely helpful," said Neher. "He's probably spent a lot of hours here when he should have been at home."

Pavarotti cancels out

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Tenor Luciano Pavarotti has canceled his scheduled appearance in the opening of the San Francisco Opera's fall season and traveled to New York to be with his teen-age daughter, who is being hospitalized for an undisclosed ailment. Pavarotti was to sing the title role of "Ernani." Terence A. McEwen, the opera company's general director, said it was not certain whether Pavarotti would return to San Francisco for later performances of "Ernani."

THE Lord is my shepherd;
I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: he lead-eth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil: my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Dear Cousins:

So sorry to recive your letter of mother, yes are Mabel certainly had a wonderful place for her. I am glad she did no have much suffering here. I know you will miss her, as I did my Mom & Dad, and Maurice, but I think Bob's death was the hardest to take, I am so thankful I have nice children.

I myself had just come back from the hospital, when I recieved your letter, had not been feeling too well at times after meals, whether I had a bite one or dinner, so they found I had obstruction in the bowls, and kidney infection, and I tell you I never want to go three thousand tests again, the last one was a great one, but thanks again I am doing better, was in the hospital about 12 days, at present I am at Raymonds (my son home in Valparaiso) as they did not want to leave me alone during the days and June goes to college, taking nurses aid is at the hospital three days and in school two, she lives in St Anne, Ill near Kankakee. I certainly hope I will not cause any more trouble - but they are all wonderful to me.

Bob's wife Eleanor will be visiting us the end of March, she must go to Savannah, Georgia, for interior tapes, as she still is in partners with the four D-Kings in Texas. Then she will visit her two sons and friends, than come to Dolores & Ray, June place for a while she is now in Glendale, and with her Mom, rented a large apartment. it does not seem possible that Bob will at rest 2 years this Sept. but I still feel as tho he must come walking in some day. I only hope the found his Dad,

Everyone else are well and I guess Robert Kelly & I must be the only ones I left from my Dads generation,
I know I am the only one
in my family,

I am starting to get stronger each day, but believe it or not last sunday was the first teime I dressed, but I must rest each day.

My Packmaker sure did his help while I was in the hospital, my doctor had all the papers when I seen him, funny you never till when the Packmaker takes over, but if it don't that will be another thing, I must goes see the Heart Surgeon in April 14,

Have not heard from Gerald, for some reason I told the children not to call anyone, so I have not heard from him since Xmas.

I am glad you both are feeling well, I will remember Mother in my prayers, altho I don't think she need many prayer,

Hope you can read this,

Love
Priscilla

Hope the new Year will bring good health to you both.

May the Spirit of Christmas remain in your heart
throughout the year

CHARLES HUNT

Wednesday 15th of December, 1982

Dear Mr Condol

I am Harriet Louise Chester Hunt. I met you once at the Ft Wayne Library. You know my husband Charles M. Hunt. I'm still trying to find some way to sort out my French Huguenot Ancestors. The Lamy Loucks are French Huguenots. The Fonkels were from Valdieu, canton of Dannemarie, arrondissement of Belfort - Haut - Rhin Alsace, France. I will enclose a self addressed envelope and part of an article I have on Charles Centlivre, who was a step brother to my great grandfather, Henry Fonkel. I would assume that Henry's mother married Charles Centlivre after the death of Henry's father. These step brothers were quite fond of each other, and it is said that my great grandfather loaned Charles

CHARLES

Centlevre two hundred dollars to start the brewery. Im not sure that it was to start the brewery in Ft. Wayne or if it was to start the one in Mechanicsburg Iowa. The article I have on Charles Centlivre is how I found out where they came from in France. Also Im beginning to think that my Bellinger ancestors that came across 1709-10 Palatine movement, as well as the Laux family, might be French Huguenots too. There is a Laux Loucks family tree by Edwin M. McBrier that tells where the Laux family came from. It is in the 200th ann. issue in the book. Also in the Ft. Wayne library there is a Bellenger book "The Mohawk Valley Bellengers" by Leyla Fredrick Bellinger. In this book on page 3 it tells about early Bellingers in the 1500's. in Dupont Genealogy. Nicholas

Nuperts Widow Ysabeau Bellenger, daughter Pierre Bellenger, died at Rouen in 1553. So I am thinking maybe the Bellengers, were of French Huguenot decent as well as the Koucks.
Maybe you could recommend some French Huguenot book for me to read.
Thanking you in advance
I Remain
Harriet L Hunt

P.S My Great grand Father married
Frances Cotter they were a French family that were already over here when the Centlivres and the Tonkels came over,
around Louisville, Stark Co., Ohio

DEAR:
MRS. HUNT.

SORRY THAT I AM SO LATE IN ANSWERING YOUR INQUIRY. TOO MANY HOLIDAYS - ETC.

TONKELS, - NEVER HAD OCCASION TO RESEARCH THIS FAMILY - ALL I HAVE IS 1870 CENSUS DATA. THE NAME OF THE TOWN VALDIEN COULD BE VALDIEU WHICH IS LOCATED EAST OF BELFORT. DANNEMARIE IS THE ADMINIST RATIVE DISTRICT OR WARD, AND NOT FAR FROM FROM VALDIEU. I THINK A PAPER "TITLED AID TO GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH IN FRANCE" SERIES G NO1. PUBLISHED BY THE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST, OF LATTED DAY SAINTS, WHICH CAN BE PURCHASED AT THE CHURCH DISTRIBUTION CENTER 33 RICHARDS STREET, SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH 84101. THIS IS BEST DOCUMENT I KNOW OF, THAT GIVES DETAILS OF HOW AND WHERE TO WRITE TO / I LOANED MY COPY TO SOMEONE, AND IT NEVER WAS RETURNED.

A CHECK OF THE COURCHATON, HAUTE SAONE FRANCE, REGISTERS FOR BIRTH, MARRIAGE AND DEATH'S ~~RECORDS~~ FROM ~~FOR~~ THE CATHOLIC PARISH OF SAINT MADELEINE 1670-1792 AND CIVIL REGISTERS 1793-1852 - HAD NO ENTRIES FOR SURNAME, LOUCKS, TONKEL

OR CENTLIVRE.

CENTLIVRE, HERE AGAIN, I HAVENT REBEARCHED THIS FAMILY IN ANY DEPTH. THERE IS A STORY ON PAGE 201, THE MAUMEE RIVER BASIN, AND PAGES 165-166 BK 2 - VALLEY OF THE UPPER MAUMEE RIVER THEY ARE NOT THE SAME AS THE CLIPPING YOU SENT TO ME. I HAVE A FEW DEATH AND MARRIAGE RECORDS FROM FTW LIBRARY.

DUPONT, A FRENCH FAMILY THAT SETTLED IN PERRY TWP, ALLEN CO. IND, IN 1894 PER. DECLARATION TO BECOME CITIZEN JOHN FRANCIS B 2-22-1797 AND PETER BORN 6-29-1810. JEAN PIERRE WAS MARRIED TO JEANNE MARIE PEQUIGNOT, 12-5-1831 IN COURCHATON, FRANCE, ACCORDING TO RECORDS FOUND IN COURCHATON REGISTER ALSO LISTS THREE CHILDREN'S BIRTH DATES, WITH NOTAT (JEAN PIERRE PARTI POUR L'AMERIQUE IL Y A QUARTRE MOIS.)

COTTET, RECORD OF THIS NAME FOUND IN FR. CHARLES BARNET'S NOTES - LOUIS COTTET MARRIED MARGUERI SCHAFFER IN ALLEN CO. — NO OTHER INFO.

LOUCKS, THIS FAMILY NAME, DOES NOT APPEAR IN ANY OF MY RECORDS. DO HAVE JOSEPH LUC. BORN 1798 - ARRIVED NEW YORK 3-19 1860 CENSUS JACKSON TWP. - WIFE MARY AND 3 CHILDRE ALL BORN IN FRANCE.

HOPING THAT THIS INFORMATION MAY BE OF SOME HELP IN YOUR SEARCH. —

THANKS FOR THE CENTLIVRE CLIPPING. WHERE DID YOU FIND IT?

SINCERELY YOURS

Alfred B Rondel.

P.S. THERE ARE A NUMBER OF FRENCH FAMILIES IN THIS AREA, THAT EITHER WERE BORN OR HAD ANCESTORS WHO LIVED IN STARKE COUNTY, OHIO. I UNDERSAND THERE WAS A LARGE FRENCH COMMUNITY, IN THE 1830-40, AND MANY EMIGRANTS MOVED THRU THE AREA ON THEIR WAY WEST.

Prayer

Lord make me an instrument of Thy peace; where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.
